i ended up at the derrin guest house by default-per my internet search, it had the last available room for the night i needed to be in larne. however, although ivy was surprised to see a lone traveler on arrival [the only available room had been a family room] she ended up being ever so helpful and accommodating. the room was clean, comfortable, and nicely decorated. the house, itself, is beautiful and overall, i had a very blissful night's sleep. i had to catch the ferry before breakfast the following morning. however, although i politely declined, ivy did offer to leave me something to take with me. all in all, i would highly recommend the derrin guest house to anyone needing a place to stay in larne....

If you are passing through Larne and need somewhere to stay - I can thoroughly recommend Derrin Guest House, the accommodation was first class and nothing was a problem for the owners, both were very helpful. Little things like small individual milk bottles on the breakfast table, Radox bath salts to use in the bath - these are only minor but make all the difference. I will definitely stay there again.

A REALLY (TRULY) EXCELLENT B&B - RATING 5/5

My husband and I stayed at the Derrin for four nights while in Larne for a family wedding, and would highly recommend it to anyone thinking of staying. Our room was spacious and quiet, with good facilities, and there were pleasant communal areas in which to read or relax. The food was excellent - especially the speciality breakfasts (freshly cooked pancakes with fruit and/or bacon were my favourite). However, it was the hospitality that really set the Derrin apart, with exceptionally helpful and welcoming hosts. Our ferry into Larne was delayed, but we were welcomed as warmly at midnight as if we'd arrived on time. After a 4am airport run to drop off family on our final day, we were offered a late (personally cooked) breakfast and an extended check out - a godsend given we faced driving home on minimal sleep. All in all, the Derrin embodied the best elements of a classic B&B, and we would (and will) highly recommend it. Thank you!
